

3.3.4.

3.3.4. Limited time embargoes

As an extension to controlling access to content in Merritt at a finer granularity, users will also be able to add a time-based valence to when materials can be more broadly exposed. As an example, a user can submit content -- such as a dataset -- to Merritt in an intermediate or working state that is not ready for use by others, but specify a specific date for when it can be made available.