

3.1.4.

3.1.4. Mediated communication between consumers and providers

The simplest way to address this need in the short term is to support the visibility of provider email addresses as part of dataset metadata to facilitate out-of-band communication. Supporting a more robust threaded discussion capability would require a much more substantial period of investigation and development.