"Building a National Finding Aid Network" (NAFAN) is a 2-year research and demonstration project (September 2020 to August 2022), rooted in the goal of providing inclusive, comprehensive, and persistent access to descriptions of archival collections or "finding aids." We believe we can more sustainably manage and provide access to these materials by developing a large-scale, national finding aid network that is community-driven, -sustained, and -governed.

Learn More

This project was made possible in part by the Institute of Museum and Library Services, through grant LG-246349-OLS-20. The IMLS is the primary source of federal support for the nation’s libraries and museums. To learn more, visit www.imls.gov.

Blog Posts

- Blog: Getting to know users of archival aggregation sites created by Adrian Turner  Sep 30, 2021
  Building a National Finding Aid Network

- Blog: Research activity updates created by Adrian Turner  Aug 11, 2021
  Building a National Finding Aid Network